

ABSTRACT

An updating system able to easily and cheaply update the content of a music database in a terminal having a
5 music database, including (i) a transmission apparatus 20 including a transmission use music database 21 for storing music database information comprised of identification information and corresponding music
10 information and a broadcast function unit 23 for broadcasting the music database information from the database 21 multiplexed on a broadcast wave and (ii) a terminal 30 including a reception function unit 33 for receiving the broadcast wave from the broadcast function
15 unit 23, an extraction function unit 34 for extracting the music database information from the received broadcast wave, and an update function unit 32 for storing the extracted music database information in the reception side music database.